Sharing Perspectives - An Interfaith Study Tour
For Jews, Christians and Muslims together in the Holy Land

In Sharing Perspectives, Jews, Christians and Muslims live and journey together as an interfaith community hosted by St. George’s College, Jerusalem. Over nine days the group encounters the land and its people in the past and present, studying historical, geographical, religious and political complexities. Time is spent in and around Jerusalem also time is spent in Galilee and Bethlehem.

Participants visit sites sacred to each tradition, welcome inquiry of one another, and explore how the Holy One is revealed uniquely in each of the Abrahamic faiths. We will look at each other’s holy scriptures and share interpretations and insights to deepen our mutual understanding.

Aided by local and international Christian, Muslim and Jewish leaders, along with skilled guides, participants will gain new insights into sister traditions, experience the intensity and hospitality of the land, and form friendships that will support greater interfaith understanding in their home communities.

Those who enrol in this course ideally should have some interfaith experience in their local communities and be seeking to use their experience on the course to strengthen interfaith work in local and wider religious settings.
